

Savage Worlds

Mailing Lists' Links FAQ

July 2004 Update

By Matthew Mather

Pinnacle Entertainment Group / Great White Games website

<http://www.peginc.com> and <http://www.greatwhitegames.com>

Savage Worlds Yahoo Group (primary mailing list)

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/Savage_Worlds/

Savage Worlds Showdown Yahoo Group (SW skirmishes)

<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/savageworldsshowdown/>

The Backup Mailing List's website

<http://savage.lythia.com/>

Savage Lythia Wiki

<http://savage.lythia.com/wiki/pmwiki.php>

Savage Worlds Wiki FAQ

<http://rorschach.net/SWFAQ>

Recapping the links from the main FAQ:

The main mailing list is hosted on Yahoo at http://groups.yahoo.com/group/Savage_Worlds/

The URL (web address) for the Savage Worlds Backup Mailing List is <http://savage.lythia.com/>

The Savage Worlds Showdown Yahoo Group, which is exclusively for the miniatures skirmish version of Savage Worlds is at <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/savageworldsshowdown/>

The Savage Worlds Wiki FAQ is constantly being updated. <http://rorschach.net/SWFAQ>

Pinnacle's website is at <http://www.peginc.com> and <http://www.greatwhitegames.com> points to it.

Shane's semi-monthly column, Shooting Blind, is at <http://www.peginc.com/ShootingBlind/index.htm>

The Downloads page with a ton of free Savage Worlds stuff is at <http://www.peginc.com/Downloads/index.htm>

Legion Publishing has the rights to make official supplements and adventures for Deadlands Classic, Weird Wars and Savage Worlds. <http://www.legionpublishing.co.uk/>

12 to Midnight publishes horror adventures for the d20 system and Savage Worlds. <http://www.12tomidnight.com/>

Alter Ego Software, the makers of Metacreator, are working on a version of Metacreator that supports Savage Worlds. <http://www.alteregosoftware.com/>

RPGNow hosts a bunch of Savage Worlds and Deadlands material you can buy. <http://www.rpgnow.com>

12 to Midnight produced the first third-party official Savage Worlds adventure "Last Rites of the Black Guard" <http://www.12tomidnight.com>

One of the best Savage Worlds fan sites in general is <http://www.savageheroes.com/>

The Savage Worlds web ring is at <http://c.webring.com/hub?ring=savageworlds&id=3&hub>

The Dragonsfoot website, which is primarily devoted to "classic" D&D (OD&D, AD&D1, AD&D2) also has a Savage Worlds section and forum. The SW files section is at <http://www.dragonsfoot.org/sw/> and the forum is at <http://www.dragonsfoot.org/forums/>

Brent Wolke's website is at <http://www.geocities.com/gameworlds>

Jason Young's website is at <http://jnryoung.home.attbi.com/j/sw/>

His page that explains SW dice probabilities in detail is at <http://jnryoung.home.comcast.net/j/sw/swdice.html>

Randy Mosiondz's website is at http://members.shaw.ca/mosiondz/savage_worlds/index.htm

Joe Frankovitch's web site is at: <Http://www.slvrdrgn.com/savageworlds>

Sean Patrick Fannon's Shaintar: Immortal Legends website is at <http://www.ActionStudios.com>

The Java Army Builder for Savage Worlds Showdown is at <http://primaryfunction.dnsalias.net:8010/swab.html>

Savage Worlds Links not in the main FAQ:

Savage Lythia Wiki <http://savage.lythia.com/wiki/pmwiki.php>

Savage D&D conversion wiki <http://symbolicorder.com/savagednd/>

Dave Blewer's Genocide Lounge <http://www.genocidelounge.com>

Sundered Skies sneak peaks: <http://members.tripod.com/blewer-d/skmain.htm>

Savage Dungeons and Dragons (an analysis of D&D classes, feats, spells and more and how best to represent them in Savage Worlds) <http://members.tripod.com/blewer-d/savagednd.htm>

Other useful gaming links

The Forge is a nice forum for "independent" game designers.

<http://www.indie-rpgs.com/index.php?c=-1>

RPGNet is a great source for RPG reviews and articles. <http://www.rpg.net>

Marguerite's links:

“Hammerdog Games. Makers of the official Savage Worlds bennies, and lots of other great gaming tokens. They do custom work... <http://www.hammerdog.com>

Toxic Bag, gaming music. They have some great battle soundtracks: <http://www.toxicbag.com/>

And for those who want to get truly detailed with their horror gaming props, these guys are the BEST! Their stuff is mostly Cthulhu, but it would work for any horror setting. The CD also includes all the necessary fonts. <http://www.cthulhulives.org/toybox/PROPDOCS/PropCD.html>

Marguerite

Alea Iacta Est!"

Quelques liens vers des sites français consacrés à Savage Worlds

Two Gun Bill nous a envoyé quelques liens à plusieurs pages web Savage Worlds en français.

Une version française des Règles d'Essai est disponible dans la section téléchargements du site de Pinnacle. <http://www.peginc.com/Downloads/index.htm>

Le Groupe Savage Worlds Yahoo France: http://fr.groups.yahoo.com/group/Savage_Worlds_fr/

Forum de discussion Savage Worlds du Sden: <http://www.sden.org/forums/viewforum.php?f=69>

Roliste.com (critiques de la gamme Savage Worlds): <http://www.roliste.com>

Torgan.net: <http://www.torgan.net>

Rubrique Savage Worlds du Sden: <http://www.sden.org/jdr/savage/spip/>

L'Orbe de la Flamme Noire: <http://membres.lycos.fr/caerberus/SPIP/>

Le site de wild'gazz: savage Star Wars, Savage Bullets etc <http://mondes.sauvages.9online.fr/>

Cheap minis and terrain

You can start with the Evernight & 50 Fathoms printable minis and “Cardstock Cowboys” from Pinnacle’s RPGNow section. Every Savage Tale thus far except for #1 have come with printable miniatures. They're not for free, though they're cheap and nice quality. There's lots more cheap and free stuff you can find online.

The Yahoo Group “Brabantini” is for paper miniatures.

Sparks, paper miniatures as fonts: <http://www222.pair.com/sjohn/sparks.htm>

Microtactix do a whole range of paper mini's and buildings you can download and print as much as you like! <http://www.microtactix.com>

RPGNow has a Pinnacle section, which contains some of their “Cardboard Heroes” range. RPGNow also has some downloadable minis for sale and some in their free section that you can check out. <http://www.rpgnow.com>

Steve Jackson Games publishes some good Cardboard Heroes sets, although they come already printed out. <http://www.sjgames.com>

Fiery Dragon has a range of paper miniatures. <http://www.fierdragon.com>

"Greywolf" has a page of free fonts, some of which are meant to be printed out and used as miniatures. <http://greywolf.critter.net/fonts.htm>

World Works, buildings and terrain: <http://www.worldworksgames.com/>

Check out some homebrew Cardstock Cowboys at <http://www.darious.com/deadlands/art/art.html>

There are some free Modern minis at <http://www.neurozombie.com/modern/files.htm>

Paper Worlds. Great resource for making your own cardboard terrain: <http://www.paperworlds.com/>

RPGNet has a monthly column called "Planet of the Paper People". A new set of minis each month! <http://www.rpg.net/news+reviews/columns.html>

What to do if your book starts falling apart

If it's a Savage Worlds book, or any other Pinnacle/Great White Games book that Shane still has a copy of, he will usually replace it free of charge. Just email him at PEGShane@Aol.com. If Shane can't replace it, or if you'd rather try and fix your book, here are a few useful links:

http://www.colby.edu/library/collections/technical_services/wp/BookRepair.html

<http://www.sff.net/people/Brook.West/bind/bindit.html>

<http://www.cafecancun.com/bookarts/betty/> (This one has instructions on binding a book that will lie flat when open, perfect for a gaming book.)